

Teen Talk Thanksgiving Cheat Sheet

BET: a phrase of affirmation used to express understanding, confirmation or acknowledgement; can be substituted with “for sure” or “sounds good.”

BOUJEE: luxurious, elite, rich

BRUH MOMENT: a moment of embarrassment

CAP: a lie; to lie

FLEX: to show off or boast, brag

FULL SEND: to do something with no regard for the repercussions or consequences of the action. The action being taken is usually considered to be risky.

LOWKEY: adjective used to describe something secretive, unexpected or felt to a low extent.

HIGHKEY: adjective used to describe something that is obvious or public knowledge

SALTY: adjective used to describe being mildly annoyed, upset, bitter.

SLAPS: to be amazing or extraordinary

STAN: an enthusiastic or obsessive fan. Comes from combining the words “stalker” and “fan.”

SUS: adjective used to suggest that someone or something is suspicious, shady or questionable. It is usually used when someone does something that is considered bizarre or creepy.

VIBE: commonly used as a verb (vibin’, vibing), referring to a relaxed or “chill” state of mind

YEET: To throw an object with great velocity

Examples

Aunt Linda always makes the most boujee Brussels sprouts — she even drizzles them with truffle oil. And that’s no cap.

Uncle Simon tried to flex how many kitchen gadgets he has by flambe-ing the marshmallows on top of the sweet potato casserole. But it was a real bruh moment when he lit grandma’s tablecloth on fire.

Great-Grandma’s stuffing recipe really slaps.

I lowkey just show up at Thanksgiving for the food.

Don’t get salty at me just because I asked you to take out the trash.

Q: After dinner, want to take a long walk and try to walk off some of this turkey? A: Bet.

After you set the table, let’s go yeet the football around in the backyard while we wait for the food to be ready.

It was sus when Betty said she’d made the pecan pie, but then I found the Harris Teeter bakery box in the garage trashcan.

Mom keeps making us listen to “The Greatest Showman” soundtrack over and over. She’s such a Hugh Jackman stan.

Your girlfriend seems really nice. Why don’t you full send it and propose to her at Christmas this year?

You need to stop vibin’ on the couch and get up and help with the dishes.